see separate sheet

INTERNATIONAL PRELIMINARY
EXAMINATION REPORT - SEPARATE SHEET

---

International application No. PCT/IB99/00650

V. Reasoned statement

1. Reference is made to the following documents:

- D1: US-A-5 442 390 (HOOPER ET AL) 15 August 1995
- D2: EP-A-0 653 888 (NEC CORPORATION) 17 May 1995
- D3: US-A-4 942 553 (DALRYMPLE ET AL) 17 July 1990
- D4: EP-A-0 501 699 (RCA THOMSON LICENSING CORP) 2 September 1992
- D5: US-A-5 642 498 (KUTNER) 24 June 1997

2. Claim 1:

Document D1 discloses (see Fig.12) a receiver/decoder (11) comprising:

- one port (802) for receiving messages;

- a memory (300);

- one application module (803); and

- control means (800) coupled to the port, the memory, and the application module operative in response to a message appearing at a port to write the message into the memory and to read the message from the memory out to an application module.

The claimed subject-matter thus only differs from the disclosure of D1 in that the memory includes a FIFO section, whereas the cache memory of D1 is managed as a circular buffer (see col. 15, lines 31-34).

However, replacing a circular buffer with a FIFO is a well known alternative, which is also suggested to the skilled person in D1 with reference to the server segment cache (see col. 12, lines 17-51).

Therefore, the subject-matter of claim 1 is considered to lack an inventive step with respect to the disclosure of D1.

3. Claims 2-15:

These dependent claims do not appear to comprise any additional features that would render their subject-matter inventive over the available prior art.

In particular:

- initiating the reading out of a message from the memory to said application module before receipt of the message is complete (claim 2) is known from D1 (see col. 15, lines 21-31);

- detecting impending overflow and/or underflow (claims 3-5) is contemplated in D1 (see col. 15, lines 37-56), but more precisely described in D2 (see col. 6, line

26 - col. 7, line 56) and in D3 (see the abstract);
- flushing a message from the memory (claim 6) is disclosed in D4 (see col. 22, lines 31-42);
- a buffer section comprising a plurality of buffers (claim 7) is shown in D4 (see col. 12, lines 38-49) and in D5 (see FIFOs 621-623 in Fig.6).
Therefore, these claims fail together with the independent claim for lack of inventive step.

VII. Certain defects

1. Independent claim 1 is not in the two-part form in accordance with Rule 6.3(b) PCT, which in the present case would be appropriate, with those features known in combination from the prior art (document D1) being placed in the preamble (Rule 6.3(b)(i) PCT) and with the remaining features being included in the characterising part (Rule 6.3(b)(ii) PCT).
2. The features of the claims are not provided with reference signs placed in parentheses (Rule 6.2(b) PCT).
3. Claims 14 and 15 contain a reference to the description. According to Rule 6.2(a) PCT, claims should not contain such references except where absolutely necessary, which is not the case here.
4. Contrary to the requirements of Rule 5.1(a)(ii) PCT, the relevant background art disclosed in the document D1 is not mentioned in the description, nor is this document identified therein.
5. On page 6, lines 10-11, the mention "the disclosures of which are herein incorporated by reference" should be deleted (see the PCT Guidelines PCT/GL/3 II, 4.17).
6. According to the requirements of Rule 11.13(I) reference signs not appearing in the description shall not appear in the drawings, and vice versa. This requirement is not met in view of the reference signs 4034 (see page 6, line 21 and page 7, line 26); 2028 (see page 9, line 21); and 58 (see Fig.5).

International application No. PCT/IB99/00650

7. The vague and imprecise statement in the description on page 19, lines 4-8 implies that the subject-matter for which protection is sought may be different to that defined by the claims and should therefore be removed (see the PCT Guidelines PCT/GL/3 III, 4.3a).

VII. Certain defects in the international application

The following defects in the form or contents of the international application have been noted:

see separate sheet

V. Reasoned statement

1. Reference is made to the following documents:

- D1: US-A-5 442 390 (HOOPER ET AL) 15 August 1995
- D2: EP-A-0 653 888 (NEC CORPORATION) 17 May 1995
- D3: US-A-4 942 553 (DALRYMPLE ET AL) 17 July 1990
- D4: EP-A-0 501 699 (RCA THOMSON LICENSING CORP) 2 September 1992
- D5: US-A-5 642 498 (KUTNER) 24 June 1997

2. Claim 1:

Document D1 discloses (see Fig.12) a receiver/decoder (11) comprising:

one port (802) for receiving messages;

a memory (300);

one application module (803); and

control means (800) coupled to the port, the memory, and the application module operative in response to a message appearing at a port to write the message into the memory and to read the message from the memory out to an application module.

The claimed subject-matter thus only differs from the disclosure of D1 in that the memory includes a FIFO section, whereas the cache memory of D1 is managed as a circular buffer (see col. 15, lines 31-34).

However, replacing a circular buffer with a FIFO is a well known alternative, which is also suggested to the skilled person in D1 with reference to the server segment cache (see col. 12, lines 17-51).

Therefore, the subject-matter of claim 1 is considered to lack an inventive step with respect to the disclosure of D1.

3. Claims 2-15:

These dependent claims do not appear to comprise any additional features that would render their subject-matter inventive over the available prior art.

In particular:

- initiating the reading out of a message from the memory to said application module before receipt of the message is complete (claim 2) is known from D1 (see col. 15, lines 21-31);
- detecting impending overflow and/or underflow (claims 3-5) is contemplated in D1 (see col. 15, lines 37-56), but more precisely described in D2 (see col. 6, line

26 - col. 7, line 56) and in D3 (see the abstract);

- flushing a message from the memory (claim 6) is disclosed in D4 (see col. 22, lines 31-42);

- a buffer section comprising a plurality of buffers (claim 7) is shown in D4 (see col. 12, lines 38-49) and in D5 (see FIFOs 621-623 in Fig.6).

Therefore, these claims fail together with the independent claim for lack of inventive step.

VII. Certain defects

1. Independent claim 1 is not in the two-part form in accordance with Rule 6.3(b) PCT, which in the present case would be appropriate, with those features known in combination from the prior art (document D1) being placed in the preamble (Rule 6.3(b)(i) PCT) and with the remaining features being included in the characterising part (Rule 6.3(b)(ii) PCT).
This claim should therefore be redrafted accordingly. If, however, the applicant is of the opinion that the two-part form would be inappropriate, then reasons therefor should be provided in the letter of reply. In addition, the applicant should ensure that it is clear from the description which features of the subject-matter of claim 1 are already known in combination from the document D1 (see the PCT Guidelines, III-2.3a).
2. The features of the claims are not provided with reference signs placed in parentheses (Rule 6.2(b) PCT).
3. Claims 14 and 15 contain a reference to the description. According to Rule 6.2(a) PCT, claims should not contain such references except where absolutely necessary, which is not the case here.
4. Contrary to the requirements of Rule 5.1(a)(ii) PCT, the relevant background art disclosed in the document D1 is not mentioned in the description, nor is this document identified therein.
5. On page 6, lines 10-11, the mention "the disclosures of which are herein incorporated by reference" should be deleted (see the PCT Guidelines PCT/GL/3 II, 4.17).

6. According to the requirements of Rule 11.13(I) reference signs not appearing in the description shall not appear in the drawings, and vice versa. This requirement is not met in view of the reference signs 4034 (see page 6, line 21 and page 7, line 26); 2028 (see page 9, line 21); and 58 (see Fig.5).
7. The vague and imprecise statement in the description on page 19, lines 4-8 implies that the subject-matter for which protection is sought may be different to that defined by the claims and should therefore be removed (see the PCT Guidelines PCT/GL/3 III, 4.3a).
